Content

By studying French culture, society and modern fiction, the students' vocabulary and understanding of French society increase. The students also practise and develop their language proficiency, in both speech and writing, through varying study assignments. The course is given in Nice and is examined by teachers at Linnaeus University, in cooperation with teachers at the study site. The course consists of four modules.

Module 1 France studies 7.5 credits

The module consists of two parts:

France studies, 4 credits

This part of the course covers the essential elements in French geography, history, culture and society. The students give oral presentations on these topics throughout the course and acquire vocabulary related to societal aspects.

French pronunciation and listening comprehension 3.5 credits

This part of the course discusses French pronunciation practice and basic French phonetics, and the students are given the opportunity to reflect on French pronunciation practice. The students also practise their ability to understand different kinds of spoken French. These skills are implemented in oral presentations and discussions in the course component France studies.

Participation in scheduled teaching is compulsory.

Module 2 Fiction 7.5 credits

The students read modern, French fiction. The texts provide an insight into the literary history of the 20th century, and their language and content are analysed. A quarter of the literature is studied with special focus on vocabulary. The texts also form the basis for oral and written presentations. Participation in scheduled teaching is compulsory.

Module 3 Written language proficiency 7.5 credits

The module consists of two parts:

Grammar 4.5 credits

This part of the course begins with a general introduction to grammar in Swedish. The students develop their understanding of French syntax and morphology. The written language proficiency is practised systematically through exercises.

Written language proficiency, 3 credits

The students practise their written language proficiency by writing short essays, and they practise their abilities to use dictionaries, grammar books and web-based resources as tools in solving various written assignments.

Participation in scheduled teaching is compulsory.

Module 4 Sweden studies and French correspondence 7.5 credits

The module consists of two parts:

French correspondence, 4 credits

In this part of the course the students acquire knowledge of how formal letters are written and practise their abilities to communicate in writing with French-speaking authorities, institutions and officials.

Sweden studies, 3.5 credits

In this part of the course the students acquire vocabulary related to administration and practise their abilities to give oral presentations on various aspects of Swedish society to a French-speaking audience.

Participation in scheduled teaching is compulsory.

Type of Instruction

The course is given in Nice, France. When the course starts, there will be an introductory day at Linnaeus University.

Teaching is delivered in the form of lectures, seminars and exercises.

Examination

The course is assessed with the grades Fail (U), Pass (G) or Pass with Distinction (VG).

Form of examination is indicated for each module. In order to receive the grade of Pass, the student must achieve the intended learning outcomes.

In order to receive the grade of Pass with Distinction, the student must have received the grade of Pass with Distinction for at least 22.5 of 30 credits.

Module 1. France studies, 4 credits, is examined through a written examination at the end of the course. French pronunciation and listening comprehension, 3.5 credits, is examined through oral presentations and participation in discussions throughout the course, as well as a reading test.

Module 2 is examined through oral and written presentations throughout the course (2.5 credits) and a written examination at the end of the course (5 credits).

Module 3. Grammar, 4.5 credits, is examined through a written examination at the end of the course. Written language proficiency, 3 credits, is examined through short essays submitted throughout the course.

Module 4. Sweden studies, 3.5 credits, is examined through oral presentations throughout the course. French correspondence, 4 credits, is examined through written assignments on formal written communication submitted throughout the course.

For students who do not pass the first examination, no more than four retake examinations are provided.

Course Evaluation

At the end of the course, a course evaluation is conducted and compiled into a report, which is made available to students and filed according to departmental regulations.
