Objectives

After completing the course, the student should be able to:

- describe the history and development of journalism, as well as today's media landscape,
- describe and explain the conditions and roles of journalism and journalists in society,
- describe and compare different journalistic genres,
- describe theories and apply criteria of newsworthiness,
- evaluate journalism on the basis of legislation and ethical aspects.

Content

This course includes a basic introduction to journalism, including theoretical, societal and professional aspects of the role and conditions of journalism.

Type of Instruction

Teaching is delivered in the form of lectures, seminars and exercises.

Examination

The course is assessed with the grades Fail (U), Pass (G) or Pass with Distinction (VG).

The course is examined through a written examination, a written assignment and seminars. In order to receive the grade of Pass, the student must achieve the objectives. Grading criteria for the grade of Pass with Distinction will be specified when the course starts.

For students who do not pass the first examinations, retake examinations are provided in accordance with local regulations at the university.

Course Evaluation

At the end of the course, a course evaluation is conducted and compiled in accordance with regulations at Linnaeus University. Results and analysis of the course evaluation are communicated to the students who have taken the course and the students who are taking the course when it is offered the next time. The evaluation is anonymous. The course evaluation is filed according to departmental regulations.
