The course syllabus is valid from autumn semester 2016

Prerequisites

General entry requirements.

Objectives

After completing the course, the students should be able to:

- account for and exemplify how important processes in society interact with the landscape,
- distinguish and account for central concepts,
- apply basic academic methods.

Module 1 Introduction to human geography 7.5 credits

After completing the module, the student should be able to:

- in general terms account for central concepts and the historical development of the subject of human geography,
- discuss and critically reflect on examples of geographic representations,
- summarise academic texts relevant to the subject.

Module 2 Population, Cultural Landscapes and the City 7.5 credits

After completing the module, the student should be able to:

- account for central concepts related to the development of the cultural landscape, as well as central concepts in population geography and urban geography,
- explain basic changes related to population geography, the development of cities, and urbanisation.

- and urbanisation,
- exemplify and explain how the development of cultural landscapes is affected by urbanisation, the development of pre-industrial, industrial and service-based societies, as well as changes regarding population.

Module 3 The Globalisation of the Economic Landscape 7.5 credits

After completing the module, the student should be able to:

- account for central concepts relevant to economic and cultural processes of globalisation,
- account for and explain the connections between global and local economic and cultural processes,
- discuss and reflect on some current issues in society and research concerning globalisation.

Module 4 Spatial Planning and Paper 7.5 credits

- account for and discuss concepts, geographic patterns and processes of change in theoretical and practical spatial planning,
- discuss and reflect on current issues in spatial planning,
- apply basic academic methods in a case study.

Content

The course consists of four modules.

Module 1 Introduction to human geography 7.5 credits

This module includes an introduction to the content and development of geography as a subject. Basic cartography is introduced. Various ways of viewing and representing the world are exemplified with the help of maps, images and reports. The module also discusses how various conceptions of the world, landscapes, views on nature, and sustainable development relate to social power relations. Academic writing is introduced.

Module 2 Population, Cultural Landscapes and the City 7.5 credits

This module discusses issues concerning population and the development and characteristics of modern, urban society. The development of the cultural landscape is studied. The module also discusses the technological development and its consequences for population distribution, transport, energy use and changes in working life and spare time. Central concepts include industrialisation, urbanisation, cities, cultural landscapes, demography and migration. Excursions are included in the module.

Module 3 The Globalisation of the Economic Landscape 7.5 credits

The module focuses on the development of the economic landscape from pre-capitalist societies to today's international and globalised economy. Globalisation is not seen solely as an economic process, but is also connected to political and cultural phenomena. The module identifies important forces behind this development and its consequences for people in different parts of the (urban) world. In seminars, the students develop a critical and problematising approach to today's globalised society.

Module 4 Spatial Planning and Paper 7.5 credits

Spatial planning is studied locally, regionally and nationally, but also internationally. Issues concerning equality in planning are discussed, as well as sustainable development. The module includes a case study in which academic methods are introduced on the basis of current issues in spatial planning.

Attendance in seminars, exercises and excursions is compulsory.

Type of Instruction

Teaching is delivered in the form of lectures, seminars, group work and excursions.

Examination

The course is assessed with the grades Fail (U), Pass (G) or Pass with Distinction (VG).

In order to receive the grade of Pass, the student must achieve the objectives. Grading criteria for the grade of Pass with Distinction will be specified when the course starts. In order to receive the grade of Pass with Distinction, the student must have received the grade of Pass with Distinction in at least three of the modules.

Some seminars might be part of the examination of the course (students are informed about this when the course starts). These seminars include oral presentations of literature or submission of memoranda. Such presentations/submissions might replace a written examination on a specified part of the course literature (students are informed about this when the course starts).

The student writes a minor essay during the course. The students' performance is assessed in the form of written tests and oral presentations, as well as an independent project/paper.

For students who do not pass the first examinations, retake examinations are provided in accordance with local regulations at the university.

Course Evaluation

At the end of the course, a course evaluation is conducted. Results and analysis of the course evaluation are communicated to the students who have taken the course and the students who are taking the course when it is offered the next time. The evaluation is anonymous. The course evaluation is filed according to departmental regulations.
