Objectives

After completing the course, students shall be able to:

- account for different investigation regulations that apply to offenders under the age of 18
- argue and account for how the legal system treats juvenile offenders and the cooperation requirements imposed on the police
- apply how they as police officers can take action initially and investigate minor juvenile cases
- independently handle a juvenile case in accordance with relevant legislation, and account for their actions as per the police procedures in force
- account for and demonstrate an understanding of young people's living conditions in general and juvenile criminality in particular.

Content

The emphasis of the course is primarily on the police work, but also on the work of other organisations, with regard to preventing, investigating and handling juvenile crimes. Legislation related to juvenile offenders is discussed, such as the Young Offenders Act, the Alcohol Act, the Code of Judicial Procedure and the Police Act. Current documentation requirements are also discussed and put into context. Various cooperative organisations' and authorities' work with juvenile offenders is addressed, as well as current forms of cooperation between for instance schools, the social services and the police.

Within the scope of the course, a social scientific insight into the youth cultures is also provided, in terms of the present time, norms, living conditions and identity development, in order to improve the conditions for common agreement in the encounters between young people and the police.

The course is concluded with a compulsory exercise in which students are given the opportunity to practice their practical as well as theoretical knowledge of juvenile offenders.

Type of Instruction

Teaching is conducted by the use of problem-based methodology. Teaching takes place in the form of supervision, seminars, lectures, field studies and practical application.

Examination

The course is assessed with the grades Fail (U), Pass (G) or Pass with Distinction (VG).

Examination of the course is carried out through a written examination, a seminar, and a written individual paper.

In order to receive a grade of Pass for the written examinations, all the intended learning outcomes of the course must be attained. For a grade of Pass with Distinction, students must attain the intended learning outcomes of the course as well as demonstrate independent and advanced reasoning of the key issues of the course.

In order to receive a grade of Pass for the seminar, students are required to demonstrate clearly the ability to carry out knowledge-based argumentative discussions on the key parts of the course content.

In order to receive a final grade of Pass with Distinction, students must receive this grade for the written examination as well as for the individual paper, and a grade of Pass for the seminar.

A retake of the examination is provided in accordance with the Local Regulations for First-Cycle and Second-Cycle Courses and Examination at Linnaeus University.

Should the university determine that a student is entitled to special educational support due to impairment, the examiner may provide the student with an adapted test or the student may carry out the examination in an alternative way.

Course Evaluation

A course evaluation is carried out either during or at the end of the course. Results and analysis of the evaluation are presented to the students who have completed the course, as well as to the students at the following course date. The course evaluation is conducted anonymously.
