Type of Instruction

The teaching is based on lectures, class discussions, group work, online discussion forums, case examples, seminars and field visits. Seminar presentations are compulsory.

Examination

The course is assessed with the grades A, B, C, D, E, Fx or F.

Grade A constitutes the highest on the scale and the remaining follow in descending order where E is the lowest to pass. Grade F means the student fails. Fx is not a grade and is only used when a student is allowed to complement her/his examination.

To obtain a grade for the whole course, it is necessary that the course's objectives are achieved on all examinations. Grade from the written home examination determines the grade for the whole course. To obtain the grade E on the course, the student must have obtained the grade E on the written home examination. To obtain the grade C, the student must have obtained the grade C in the written home examination. To obtain the grade A, the grade A must be obtained on the written home examination.

The course objectives are examined as follows:

Group presentations in seminars and class discussions on issues related to international social work. Group presentations are equivalent to 5 credits and examine objectives 1, 2, 4 and 5. On seminars the grades are either pass or fail.

Individual written examination (an essay) about a chosen topic of interest. This examination is equivalent to 10 credits and examines objectives 3, 5 and 6. It is assessed with grades A-F.

Grade criteria for the A-F scale is specified by the examiner and communicated to the students through the study guide. The student will be informed about the grade criteria by the start of the course.

Course Evaluation

During the course or close to the end, a course evaluation will be done. The results and analysis of the course evaluation will be returned to the students who completed the course and the students attending the next course.

The valuation is conducted anonymously.
