Content

The course includes a systematic introduction to German language structure and forms, which are practised through oral and written exercises. The course also includes lectures and seminars on the societies, history, culture and literature of the German-speaking countries. Module 4 focuses on the EU and intercultural communication.

Module 1: Written and oral communication, 7.5 credits

Translation, 4.5 credits

This part includes translation exercises into German. It has a clear connection to the grammar module, as well as to vocabulary and phrases acquired in the other modules.

Oral language proficiency and pronunciation, 3 credits

This part covers basic German pronunciation and intonation rules. The students practise their oral language proficiency in free production. Attendance and active participation in seminars is compulsory.

Module 2: Society and culture, 7.5 credits

Social studies, 4 credits

This part of the module covers the history, geography, politics and current societal conditions of the German-speaking countries. Cultural historical developments in the German-speaking countries are also discussed.

Textual analysis, 3.5 credits

Modern fiction and relevant prose are studied, focusing on content and literary aspects. Attendance is compulsory.

Module 3: Grammar I, 7.5 credits

Grammar and written exercises, 7.5 credits

This module includes a systematic introduction to German language structure and syntax essential for language proficiency, focusing on contrastive aspects. The module also includes an introduction to general grammatical concepts. Written assignments in the form of process writing where the students apply their knowledge are submitted continuously.

Module 4: EU studies and intercultural communication, 7.5 credits

In this module the students read prose, newspaper texts and one literary text. The module also includes an introduction to the history and organisation of the European Union. Relevant issues and intercultural communication are discussed.

Type of Instruction

Teaching is delivered in the form of lectures, seminars and group exercises. Compulsory parts are specified in the content of each module.

Examination

The course is assessed with the grades Fail (U), Pass (G) or Pass with Distinction (VG).

In order to receive the grade of Pass, the student must achieve the intended learning outcomes.
