- discuss language-didactic theories and connect them to practical teaching
- analyse the subject's course and subject syllabi from the point of view of language-didactic subject tradition and theory.

Content

The course includes a systematic review of German morphology and syntax, with associated oral and written exercises. It furthermore includes lectures and seminars on the German-speaking countries' societies, history, culture, and literature. The profile courses provide an opportunity to study fields such as the EU and intercultural communication, or language didactics.

Module 1: Social studies and writing, 7.5 credits

This module comprises two components:

Social studies, 3.5 credits

The German-speaking countries' history, geography, politics, and current societies are studied, along with their cultural historical development.

Translation, 4 credits

This component includes exercises in translation into German, continuously referring to the grammar module and building on grammatical knowledge and knowledge of words and phrases, acquired in the grammar module as well as in other modules.

Module 2: Profile course I, 7.5 credits; two alternatives

Alternative 1: EU studies and intercultural communication

In this module, students read non-fiction and newspaper texts. The module also includes an introduction to the European Union's history and organisation. Current issues and intercultural communication are discussed.

Alternative 2: Introduction to language didactics

This module includes an introduction to theories of language acquisition and language teaching. Through a series of seminars, it furthermore deals with oral interaction, grammar and fiction in language teaching, strategies in language acquisition, and syllabi and policy documents. The subject tradition and the subject's function in school as well as in society is critically reviewed. The module furthermore includes field studies at a school.

Type of Instruction

Teaching is delivered in the form of lectures, seminars and group exercises. Module 2 alternative 2 is delivered in Swedish.

Examination

The course is assessed with the grades Fail (U), Pass (G) or Pass with Distinction (VG).

In order to receive the grade of Pass, the student must achieve the objectives. Grading criteria for the grade of Pass with Distinction will be specified in writing when the course starts.

If the university has decided that a student is entitled to special pedagogical support due to a disability, the examiner has the right to adapt the exam or to let the student conduct the exam in an alternative way.

Resit examination is offered in accordance with Local regulations for courses and examination at the first and second-cycle level at Linnaeus University.

Module 1: Social studies and writing, 7.5 credits

The component Social studies is examined through written assignments. The component Translation is examined through a written examination.

Module 2: Profile course I, 7.5 credits; two alternatives

Alternative 1 is examined through oral and written presentations. Alternative 2 is examined through a written assignment linked to the field study, and an oral presentation.

Course Evaluation

During or shortly after the course, a course evaluation should be conducted. The result and analysis of the course evaluation should be promptly communicated to the students who have taken the course. Students who are taking the course when it is offered the next time should be informed of the result at the course introduction. The course evaluation is anonymous.

Overlap

The course cannot be included in a degree along with the following course/courses of which the content fully, or partly, corresponds to the content of this course:
1TY100 (15 credits), 1TY101 (15 credits), 1TY120 (15 credits), 1TYÄ02 (15 credits).
