Objectives

After completing the course the student is expected to be able to:

- describe and analyze current business developing conditions from a network perspective
- problematize different approaches in utilizing networks and clusters
- in different ways convey information using different methods and to different groups
- adopt a local and global perspective when analyzing a company's possibilities to make business in a network

Content

This course originates in a thematic assignment, which entails examining a business network from a local as well as a global perspective and look at its business development opportunities. To aid the students there are study activities concerning business administration, legal science, social psychology, economics and information science.

This course includes:

Business administration, 4.5 credits
Legal Science, 1.5 credits

Legal Science, 1.5 credits
Economics, 1.5 credits

Type of Instruction

Teaching in the form of a collaboration with businesses that have been selected for the programme. Within the course there is also a possibility to collaborate with already established networks. The basic idea of the course is to facilitate the students' individual search for knowledge through various assignments. The learning process of the student is supported via a study guide, lectures, post-reading, seminars, reflection meetings, tutoring and literary studies. Obligatory parts are stated in the schedule.

Examination

The course is assessed with the grades A, B, C, D, E, Fx or F.
Paper assignments carried out in groups.

The grade A constitutes the highest grade on the scale and the remaining grades follow in descending order where the grade E is the lowest grade on the scale that will result in a pass. The grade F means that the student's performance is assessed as fail.

After each regular examination there will be at least one new examination in close proximity to the date the results of the regular exam were posted. A minimum of five occasions for written exams will be offered in relation to the syllabus to which the student was accepted. Usually three occasions per academic year are offered. Students that fail reports can complement after instructions from the examiner to obtain a pass grade.

Grading criteria for the A–F scale are communicated in writing to the student by the start of the course/module at the latest, as well as how grades on separate elements of examination are weighed to a final course grade.

Course Evaluation

During the implementation of the course or in close connection to the course a course evaluation is to be carried out. Result and analysis of the course evaluation is to be presented as feedback both to the students who have completed the course and to the students who are to participate on the course the next time it is offered. The course evaluation is to be carried out anonymously.
