Content

Content for the course as a whole

The course includes an introduction to didactic theories and methods. The student practises their academic Spanish language proficiency, and writes a degree project in didactics.

Module 1. Didactic theories and methods, 7.5 credits

The module includes the following:

- analysis of various theories of learning and their effects on language teaching and on pupils' language learning,
- discussion of various didactic theories concerning language development and language teaching, and comparisons of different strategies for learning,
- in-depth studies of relevant methods within language-didactic research, for example surveys and interviews,
- methodology,
- discussions of diversity aspects from the perspective of Spanish language teaching,
- exercises in applying the content of relevant policy documents in concrete teaching.

Module 2. Written communication III, with academic writing, 7.5 credits

The module includes the following:

- practising academic writing in terms of language usage, current formal norms and adapting texts to different recipients,
- an introduction to essay writing in terms of form and content.

Module 3. Degree project, 15 credits

The module includes the following:

- writing a degree project in didactics which is presented and defended in a seminar,
- critically reviewing another student's project.

Sessions marked as seminars in the schedule are compulsory.

Type of Instruction

The teaching is distance-based and carried out on an online learning platform. Internet access, web camera and headset are necessary. Teaching is delivered in the form of oral and/or written online lectures and online discussions between the teacher and individual students and between the students.

Examination

The course is assessed with the grades Fail (U), Pass (G) or Pass with Distinction (VG).

In order to receive the grade of Pass, the student must achieve the intended learning outcomes. In order to receive the grade of Pass with Distinction, this grade must be achieved for at least 22.5 credits.

For students who do not pass the first examination, four retake examinations are provided.

Module 1 is examined through oral and/or written assignments and a written examination.

Module 2 is examined through written projects and a written examination.

Module 3 is examined through a seminar at Linnaeus University in which the student presents and defends their degree project. The student must also critically review another student's degree project in a seminar.

Course Evaluation

At the end of the course, a written course evaluation is conducted. The evaluation is compiled into a report which is filed and made available to the students.
