Date of Ratification

Approved 2024-05-06.

Revised 2026-02-26. The prerequisite requirement has been supplemented with subjects according to GY25.

The course syllabus is valid from autumn semester 2026.

Prerequisites

1-90 credits in a subject within the Humanities or Social sciences including a degree project of at least 15 credits, or equivalently. You also need English 6 or English, level 2.

Objectives

After completing the course, the student should be able to:

- master and independently apply advanced terminology and complex

- conceptualization within intermediality and multimodality,
- conduct both written and oral analyses of graphic novels with theoretical and methodological awareness,
- problematize relationships and interactions between the comics medium and other media and art forms,
- write and present their own adaptation analysis of a graphic novel.

Content

The course focuses on the comic medium as a form of expression, providing advanced theoretical knowledge from an intermedial and multimodal perspective. By exploring the aesthetic, formal, and narrative aspects of comics, the course offers an intermedial and multimodal framework for analysis. Through the examination of various comics and graphic novels, as well as research material, students learn to analyse and critically examine representations and mediations. The course particularly addresses transmediations and adaptations both from and to other media such as novels, films and videogames.

Type of Instruction

Teaching is delivered in the form of lectures and seminars through an online learning platform.

Examination

The course is assessed with the grades Fail (U), Pass (G) or Pass with Distinction (VG).

The course is examined through written assignments and oral presentations, group projects and seminars on zoom. In addition to this, there is an independent individual assignment where the student, in consultation with the supervisor, selects primary materials for an adaptation analysis. This assignment should clearly demonstrate that the student has assimilated the required course literature and has learned to apply relevant theoretical tools for analysis.

The grade of U means that the student has failed the course. The grade G is the lowest grade and grade VG is the highest grade for passing the course. Grading criteria for the grades G and VG will be specified when the course starts.

Resit examination is offered in accordance with Local regulations for courses and examination at the first and second-cycle level at Linnaeus University. If the university has decided that a student is entitled to special pedagogical support due to a disability, the examiner has the right to adapt the exam or to let the student conduct the exam in an alternative way.

Course Evaluation

A course evaluation should be conducted during the course or in connection with its conclusion. The results and analysis of the completed course evaluation should be promptly communicated to students who have completed the course. Students participating in the next course instance should be informed of the results of the previous course evaluation and any improvements that have been made, no later than at the start of the course.

Other Information

The course is elective in the course offerings for the master's programme Media

Cultures: Intermedial and Multimodal Studies during term 2, and may also be offered in other master's programmes.
